Is Thumbsucking Harmful To Children? Sometimes

Feb. 4 through 10 is the 14th annual National Dental Health Week. As part of the observance, The HERALD, in cooperation with the Harbor District Dental Society, today begins a series giving typical questions asked about dental health, and the authoritative answers.)

Is thumbsucking harmful? My daughter is two years old and sucks her thumb when she is going to sleep.

Dental and medical health authorities generally agree that thumbsucking in the young child in itself is not bad. There is a strong basic instinct in the infant for sucking. This instinct is one of the larger factors in the start of thumb and finger sucking. Because of this, when a young infant starts to thumbsuck after a feeding, the usual suggestion is to prolong the feeding — by using nipples with smaller holes, for example, in the case of bottle-fed babies. A pacifier may be of help in this respect.

Thumbsucking can be harmful when it is practiced (1) vigorously and (2) during the eruption of the permanent incisors — from the age of about six to nine years. Under these circumstances malocclusion or protruding teeth can result.

MY CHILD is six month old and does not have any teeth yet. Is there something wrong with him?

No. Eruption of the first teeth may start as early as the fourth month and as late as the eighth and still be considered normal. Some authorities believe that teeth erupt and are shed earlier in slender children than in stocky children, but even here there are exceptions.

The first teeth to erupt are the lower central incisors. The first molars erupt about the time the child is a year old. All of the 20 deciduous (first) teeth are normally present by the child is two and a half or three years old. This is when the first visit to the dentist, for an inspection, should be scheduled.

It should also be noted that eruption of the teeth has no relationship to intelligence, old wives' tales to the contrary.

WHEN the dentist cleans and scales my teeth, doesn't that scrape off enamel? Can't the teeth be damaged this way?

No... to both questions. There is no evidence that dental prophylaxis is harmful to the teeth. On the other hand, there is very definite evidence that it is beneficial. Cleaning of the teeth in this way prevents a dangerous accumulation of calculus on the teeth. In this cleaning the most important factor is the careful removal of deposits (sometimes called tartar) from around each individual tooth. This is an important measure in preventing periodontal (gum) disease.

Movies Shown Of Costa Rica

James Duroy of Torrance showed movies of a recent trip he made to Costa Rica when he appeared at the second annual banquet of the Harbor Bird Hobbyists Club.

New club officers were introduced. They are Mrs. John Tresler, president; Mrs. Don Armes, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Eleanor Burger, publicity chairman.

Duroy announced that he plans to return to Costa Rica next year to do research on birds and to take more motion pictures of the country.

Rolling Hills Plaza Names Ad Director

Martin Fass, 27, who has worked in advertising, radio and TV broadcasting, has been named advertising director for the Rolling Hills Plaza Merchants Assn., composed of merchants in a shopping center at Pacific Coast Highway and Crenshaw Boulevard.

He replaces Joe Incando who is now doing promotion work for a new development in Ventura. Fass majored in communications at USC. In addition to his radio and television work, Fass has also produced educational motion pictures for three years.

Fass said that 22 out of 37 acres at Rolling Hills Plaza have been developed. Construction work by Jefferson Inc., the developers, is still in progress although many business have been open since last spring, he said.

Major stores there now include Foods Co. and Newberry's. A Thrifty Drug Store will open next month.

DOUGLAS ACCELERATING PLANT CONSOLIDATION

An accelerated schedule for consolidating facilities of the Aircraft Division was announced today by Douglas Aircraft Co.

Jackson R. McGowan, vice president and general manager of the division, disclosed that a majority of the functions remaining at the El Segundo facility will be transferred to Long Beach between Jan. 27 and Feb. 28. Approximately 1,450 employees are involved.

Douglas studies show that both the company and the government will enjoy substantial savings as a result of the facilities consolidation.

"IN OVERHEAD costs alone," said McGowan, "the Aircraft Division can expect savings of five to six per cent during the next three years and the savings should continue at about the same level thereafter. In dollars, that looks very attractive."

Earlier plans called for the moves to be made in September when a new product development and engineering building will be completed. A majority of those being transferred during the next 60 days will be located temporarily in converted hangar space at Long Beach.

Lande gives pointers to Mary Griffith, second from left, and Chuck Lande, right, on ways to bring the Nutcracker doll, played by Jeff Rensch, to life in a scene from "The Nutcracker and the Prince," presented by the Marymount Children's Theatre at matinee and evening performances Saturday on the college's Palos Verdes Estates campus.
